To our Napa Valley Grapegrowers and Napa Valley Farmworker Foundation Community,

At this moment, we are celebrating a great vintage following a mild growing season. This gives us time to reflect on the important role NVG and the FWF continue to play in strengthening community, sustaining agriculture, and supporting farmworkers. 2021 has been both a year of recovery and adaptive solutions, and we are proud to continue providing key leadership on big issues such as wildfire prevention, COVID-19 safety, maintaining a sustainable workforce, and climate change, alongside a full schedule of grower and farmworker-centric educational programming. This year, we also celebrated Napa Valley Farmworker Foundation’s 10th anniversary and our first Harvest STOMP back together and in-person since 2019.

As we reflect on the year, we are blown away by the generosity of those that cherish the Napa Valley as we do – and who give, so that we can continue our work to promote land preservation and support the people that make up our farming community. Because of you, we can continue setting a gold standard for farming regions across the world.

Now, as we look ahead to 2022, the Napa Valley Grapegrowers and Napa Valley Farmworker Foundation remain committed to our missions and to providing valuable resources for our members and the farmworker community. Thank you for trusting us, staying connected, and investing generously in our continued efforts to build a legacy for Napa Valley agriculture!

With gratitude,

2021 Grower of the Year, Ren Harris

Oakville grape grower and Napa Valley Grapegrowers founder, Ren Harris, was named the 2021 Napa Valley Grower of the Year.

Beyond founding the California Grower Foundation, which established affordable health care access for farmworkers, and the Napa Valley Grapegrowers, throughout his career, Harris immersed himself in many civic, philanthropic, and professional endeavors, all helping to build a legacy for Napa Valley agriculture and land preservation: President of the Napa County Farm Bureau; Governor of the council of California Growers; Napa Valley Co-Op Winery Director; past president and active board member for the Oakville Winemakers Association; and, since 2002, a 1% for the Planet movement member, annually dedicating 1% of his winery’s gross sales toward environmental nonprofits.

NVG President Michael Silacci said, “Ren Harris is an icon, scratch that, a legend in the Napa Valley. His tireless efforts to preserve and protect the land, the vineyards, the people, and the community are woven into the fabric of the Napa Valley. If the Grower of the Year were to receive an Oscar-like statue instead of a belt buckle, Ren would be the model for it.”
